Lockdown Case Study:
Karin Austin, LRC Administrator, The Tiffin Girls' School, London

Karin is the Learning Resource Centre administrator at The Tiffin Girl's School, Kingston-Upon-Thames, London. During lockidown she has been supporting students by providing:

- An eBook library, using VleBooks.
- A dedicated library section of the school's Google Site for students. This includes a list of sources of free eBooks and audiobooks, an online book suggestion form, a "Book of the Week", with links to her suggested reading lists for the different year groups, links to external sources of book-related activities, writing competitions and external online reading groups, as well as the school's own online school book club.
- Hands-on advice on how to use the new eBook library.
- Regular reminders of external sources of other online reading and study materials.

Karin reports that there has been a good take-up of the new eBook library and students have been contacting her with lots of suggestions for new books to buy. She has also received several emails thanking her for providing this service.
